INSTRUCTIONS & RULES

*The most important part of the day...
...after the vows.*

INSTRUCTIONS

- 1. Nominate the timekeeper.
It must be a trustworthy person, or at least the most trustworthy at the table.
- 2. Decide on the stake.
Choose a nice round figure and frown upon anyone who takes this opportunity to offload all their loose change.
- 3. Decide what the bet is.
See betting card for options.

RULES

It's said that all's fair in love and war. So to avoid all out war on a day about love, here's the rules.

- 1. The timekeeper holds the money. Not in a pocket, in plain view please.
- 2. The timekeeper's decision is final. Unless they're taking part too, in that case, keep an eye...
- 3. The person on the timekeeper's left goes first.
- 4. No colluding with the best man. Every other table has already tried.
- 5. The winner is announced – the timekeeper reveals whose time was closest.
- 6. If you win, don't celebrate too much – it's their big day, not yours.
- 7. If you lose, don't cry too much – there's been enough tears already.
- 8. No pressure should be put on the winner to buy a round. Though if they choose not to, it is acceptable to make smart comments about them when they go to the loo.

FORFEITS

For those who got it soooo wrong, you didn't think you would get away that lightly, now did you? The person furthest from the actual speech time must choose from one of the following forfeits:

- 1. Dance with a Granny/Grandad.
- 2. Start a conga line.
- 3. Sing 'Sweet Caroline' with the band.
- 4. Shake hands with as many distant relatives as you can.
- 5. Put a tie around your head and play air guitar on the dancefloor.
